Graduate Assistantship Applications Now Being Accepted

Due Date: March 11, 2018

The Energy Policy Institute is accepting applications to fill two upcoming Graduate Assistant positions for the 2018-19 academic year. Well-qualified applicants will have a strong understanding of research methods and be able to gather and analyze academic literature. EPI is interested in applicants from all graduate programs and disciplines, especially: Engineering and Computer Science, the School of Public Service, the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business and Economics, and Innovation and Design.

EPI's Graduate Assistants receive a competitive stipend ($7,500) for each semester and EPI covers all of your tuition (including out-of-state) and student fees.¹ Renewal for subsequent semesters is likely, but contingent upon business need and satisfactory performance. In return, the appointment requires a 20-hour per week commitment for research activities at EPI. Graduate Assistants must be admitted to the Boise State University Graduate College and also fully admitted to their degree program, carrying at least 9 graduate credit hours during each semester.

Please send your 1) cover letter, 2) resume, 3) writing sample, and 4) recent transcript (unofficial acceptable) by email to autumnjohnson102@boisestate.edu by Sunday, March 11, 2018. One PDF including all four documents is preferred. Interviews are expected to occur the week of March 19th. The positions will start the first week of fall semester 2018.

Make sure your cover letter answers the following questions:

- What graduate program you are in and when you expect to graduate,
- Your research experience,
- Your interest and/or experience in energy,
- Whether you are available to attend our conference (EPRC) September 6-7, 2018,
- Your student ID number, and
- Why you are interested in working at EPI?
